TRAPS

Some of the information received for the trap symposium is presented in this issue. Your Editor wishes to thank those who supplied material and to urge the rest of you to send in your contributions or comment when you can.

Jeff Gill of Huntington, Long Island, wrote twice on the subject; the first time as follows:

"I believe the days of small traps are past, except for those just beginning or for the bander who wishes to operate some substations with portable traps. By small traps I mean the single cell jobs.
