

BIRD CALENDAR.

Bulletin No. 2

March, 1907

The following revisions and additions have been made since the appearance of the first bulletin.

Record:

Robin, March 1, Mentor, Ohio; observer, Mr. T.P. \ Cadle.

Killdeer, March 9, the same.

Bluebird, March 15, the same.

Crow Blackbird (25-30) the same.
March 19, Cleveland Heights.

Phoebe, March 16, Mentor; observer Mr. T.P.Cadle;
March 21, Cleveland; obs. Dr. Hulme.

Mourning Dove, March 16, Mentor; obs. Mr. T.P.Cadle

Bluebill (or American Scaup or Blackhead Duck) (50),
Bass Lake, Chardon; obs. Mr. Howard Ferris; March 16.

Canada Geese (15), March 18, Mentor; obs. Mr. T.P.Cadle.

Fox Sparrow, March 21, (4-5), Cleveland; obs. Dr. Hulme.

Field Sparrow, " " " "

Flicker " 22 " "
" 23, Cleveland Heights.

Cardinal (pair), Cleveland, March 22, possibly resident;
Obs. Dr. Hulme

F.H.H.

Addendum

- March 13. Crow Blackbird or Bronzed Grackle, East Cleveland; Observer, Mr. Walworth, (one); Mar. 17, Dr. Hulme.
- March 15. Bluebirds in large numbers. Cleveland; observer Professor Hulme, also Cleveland Heights, Noble Road.
- " 15. Song Sparrows, Cleveland Heights, Noble Road; obs. Mr. James.
- " 16 Redwing Blackbirds. Cleveland Heights, obs. Mr. James.

* * *

The most remarkable characteristic of the spring migration thus far was the sudden appearance of thousands of Robins into our midst between Monday and Friday, Mar. 11-15, and upon the latter day of thousands of Bluebirds, Song Sparrows, and Meadow Larks.

On March 17, male and female Bluebirds were seen carrying material into a bird house.

* * *

- March 15. Chewink or Ground Robin. Wade Park; obs. Dr. Hulme
- " " Mourning Dove. Wade Park; obs. Dr. Hulme.
- " " Cow Blackbird (pair). Cleveland Heights; obs. Dr. Hulme.
- " " Meadow Larks, Cleveland Heights, Noble Road.