

EDITOR'S MESSAGE

Our feature, Atlantic Flyway Review, will undergo a few changes beginning with 1974 coverage that are designed to make it better! In view of the fact that the New Jersey area has so few reporting stations that analyses are too difficult to make, that area has been added to another, and its former coordinator has been given a new task to fulfill. Your coordinators will fill you in on deadlines, etc.

Region	Coordinator	Coverage
I	Dick Ferren	All of New England, exc:Conn. & Vermont
II	V. Freer	Vermont, Eastern New York (NOT L.I.), North-eastern Pennsylvania
III	R.Dewire	Connecticut, Long Island, N.Y., and New Jersey
IV	D. Clark	All of Pennsylvania except northeastern section; West Virginia, Quebec, Western NY, Florida; also stations not covered elsewhere.
V	C.Robbins	All stations now belonging to the MID-ATLANTIC BIRD BANDING GROUP.
VI.	B. Adams	(see below)

Region VI will be used to include certain INLAND stations that meet the following criteria (all points):

A. Location in following states only: PENNSYLVANIA, NEW YORK (exc: Long Island), NEW JERSEY (excl: all areas east of NJ Turnpike), WEST VIRGINIA, NORTH/SOUTH CAROLINA (excl. areas east of Interstate Route 95).

B. Stations must operate at least once a week on an annual basis.

C. Stations must band a minimum of 800 birds of AT LEAST 25 SPECIES per banding year.

The object is to give larger inland stations the opportunity to be included in these write-ups. If the amount of stations become too excessive (based on money available for printing) we may have to revise our criteria. Meanwhile, Bruce Adams will try to coordinate this effort, so please send him your summary, also a cover letter explaining highlights plus a listing of birds that are considered late, early, rare in your particular area. A complete description of station location and habitat is also desired. Please note that Bruce will take information from your statements that are applicable to our objective. He will not necessarily repeat your statement word-for-word.

Stations that qualify should send their information to Bruce as soon as possible, beginning with the 1974 banding year data. Mail to: Bruce Adams, RFD1, Cranbury Road, Cranbury, N.J. 08512.
