From the desk of IBBA's President

This past spring, the IBBA Board of Directors approved a new Inland Bird Banding Association (IBBA) logo.

IBBA has been in place since 1922 and has had several logos: however, the board felt it was time to update the current one and requested Laura Bailey, design artist, to provide some ideas. Through several drafts, the board has approved this 2019 version of the IBBA logo.

The new logo tells who we are-Inland Bird Banding Association and our abbreviation-IBBA. The logo indicates the regions of Canada and United States that are covered by IBBA. Also, there are four main species types represented-raptors, passerines, hummingbirds, and owls. Of course, there are many other bird species researched by banders in IBBA, but these are some of major ones! I would like to thank Laura and the board for making this new logo happen!
