

READER'S GUIDE

The proceedings of this Symposium offer a plethora of material on the subject of estimating the abundance of birds. We offer the following as a subject guide to be used in conjunction with the Table of Contents as a quick means of locating sections of the proceedings dealing with specific topics.

DATA ANALYSIS, GENERAL COMMENTS

- Assumptions 139, 409–410
- Auxiliary Information 436–440
- Distance to Detections 382–386, 502–508

COUNT PERIOD

- Length 15, 409–413
- Spacing 394–397

ENVIRONMENTAL VARIABLES

- Ambient Noise 15, 350
- General Discussion 324–325
- Sound Transmission 297–301
- Species Abundance 15, 217, 386
- Terrain 311, 315
- Vegetation 13, 259, 262–264, 287–291, 316–321, 350, 397–398, 459, 535–536, 539
- Weather 14, 259–260, 301–310, 350

HABITAT CORRELATES

- General Discussion 419, 522–532, 533–537, 538–542

OBSERVERS AND THEIR VARIABILITY

- Attention Span 350
- Comparability between Observers 15, 150–151, 353–359, 367–371, 372–376, 388–389
- Distance Estimates 334–340
- Hearing Ability 327–333, 341–345, 349–350, 354–359
- Species Identification 356–357, 360–365
- Training 340, 358, 367–371
- Selection 345, 366–367

PLANNING AND CHOOSING METHODS

- Definition of Objectives 1, 162
- General Discussion and Selection of Methods 1–2, 3, 12–16, 146–148, 162, 363–364, 392–398, 419–420, 441–444, 513–521, 548–533, 567–568, 570–574, 575–576, 580–581, 583
- Terminology 427, 577–578

SAMPLING DESIGN

- Distribution of Sampling Areas 514–516
- Distribution of Sampling Plots in Areas 15, 415–416, 545–547
- Frequency of Samples 149–150, 399–404, 405–408, 416–419, 441–444, 445–449
- General Discussion 392–398, 399–404, 445–449, 452–453, 559–565, 567–569, 570–574
- Plot Size 116–117, 421–425, 441–444, 513–521, 545–546
