"When a bird-watcher picks up his first copies of Audubon Field Notes he is almost certain to be surprised. He had never imagined:

"1. That 'The Changing Seasons' was such an enlightening and far-reaching news summary.

"2. That so many hundreds of observers contributed to an average issue.

"3. That the 'Winter Bird Population Study' reports could give many clues to the operators of feeding stations.

"4. That even the giant Christmas Bird Count issue (April) is included in the low annual subscription price of $3.00.

"My file of AFN is one of my most valuable sources of ornithological information. I am indeed grateful to the National Audubon Society, the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service, and the unnumbered cooperators who make its publication possible."
