

Regional Reports Pictorial Highlights

Autumn 1988

Glaucous Gull in first-winter plumage at Phoenix, Arizona, November 26, 1988. A long-awaited first state record. Photograph/Stephan J. Schoech.

Clapper Rail at St. John's, Newfoundland, October 16, 1988. Second provincial record. Photograph/Doug Phelan.

Gray Wagtail at the Salinas Rivermouth, California, October 10, 1988. A first for California and for the Lower 48 States, this was thought perhaps to be the "best" of the many outstanding rarities in the Region this season. Photograph/Stephen F. Bailey.

*Eastern White Pelican (P. onocrotalus) at Rivière-à-Claude, Quebec, September 24, 1988. The bird was immediately suspected (and later proven) to be an escapee. Photograph/Serge Lafrance.*

Blue-winged Warbler at Grand Forks, North Dakota, August 31, 1988. Photograph/David Lambeth.

American Swallow-tailed Kite at Point Pelee, Ontario, late August-early September 1988. Photograph/James N. Flynn.

A mango, probably Green-breasted Mango (Anthracothorax pre-vostii) from Mexico, in Brownsville, Texas, September 18, 1988. First record of this genus for the United States. Photograph/Mike Baldwin.

Terek Sandpiper at Carmel, California, August 28, 1988. First for California and for the Lower 48 States. Photograph/Peter LaTourrette.

Northern Wheatear (one of four in the Region this fall) at South Harwich, Massachusetts, October 3, 1988. Photograph/R. S. Everett.

Common Moorhen in Cabell County, Ohio, November 1988. Photograph/Wendell L. Argabrite.

Henslow's Sparrow, not often detected in migration, at the Chesapeake Bay Bridge and Tunnel, Virginia, October 8, 1988. Photograph/Brian Patteson.

Immature Wood Stork at Scott State Lake, Kansas, August 22 1988. Photograph/Scott Seltman.

Fork-tailed Flycatcher at Port-Menier, Anticosti Island, Quebec, September 25, 1988. Photograph/Yves Aubry.

*Great Crested Tern (Sterna bergii) at Pa'akai Pond, O'ahu, Hawaii, October 30, 1988. First record for Hawaii and for the A.O.U. Check-list Area. Photograph/Peter Donaldson (HRBP #804).*

Rock Wren at Montrose Harbor, Chicago, Illinois, October 8, 1988. Photograph/Joe B. Milosevich.

Juvenile Eurasian Dotterel at Point Reyes, California, September 10, 1988. Third state record. Photograph/Peter LaTourrette.

Long-toed Stint at Salinas, California, August 30, 1988. Photograph/Gerald Maisel.

*Juvenile Long-toed Stint at Salinas, California, August 29, 1988. First state record. This portrait shows the characteristic face pattern described by Jonsson and Veit in American Birds 41:213-236 (Summer 1987). Photograph/Peter LaTourrette.*

Juvenile Pomarine Jaeger at Saylorville Reservoir, Iowa, September 30, 1988. Notice the unstreaked dark head, pale-based bill, and white crescent on the greater underprimary-coverts. Photograph/Steve Dinsmore.

Brown Pelican at Hereford Inlet, New Jersey, August 27, 1988. We note with sorrow the untimely death of Serge Lafrance, whose many outstanding photographs (like this one) have enhanced the appearance of the Hudson-Delaware Region column for the past seven years.

Canada Warbler at Malheur National Wildlife Refuge, Oregon, September 3, 1988. Second state record. Photograph/Jim Johnson.

Adult male Vermilion Flycatcher at Sun City Center, south of Tampa, Florida, October 1988. This may have been the same individual that had spent the preceding winter at this precise location. Photograph/Lee F. Snyder.

One of nine Purple Sandpipers found November 6, 1988, at Grand Isle, Vermont. The species is a very rare visitor there. Photograph/David J. Hoag.

Male Black-throated Blue Warbler at Crow Valley Campground, Pawnee National Grassland, Colorado, September 14, 1988. Photograph/Dave Leatherman.