posed first of oak leaves and wool, then grass and clover stems, next with a layer of manure instead of mud, as is generally the case, and lastly the regulation lining of small roots. This nest was taken July 8th. There was no scarcity of mud when the nest was built.

A Hungry Jay.—On July 5th I found a Blue Jay eating a young Bluebird nearly full grown. It had eaten the head, neck and viscera. On first discovering the Blue Jay I scared it away and threw what remained of the victim under some bushes. In a short time I returned that way and found the Jay eating the Bluebird. He was so greedy that he had hunted up the bird to finish his meal. It is needless to say that I shot him.

HOWARD P. MITCHELL.

Mt. Sterling, Wis.

A Few Words.

Do not complain because there is not more information under "Notes." You are to blame for the lack of those information giving items. The officers cannot do all. We can only publish what you send us. Please remember this and try and give us something for our next Bulletin.

A society cannot accomplish much unless each and every member takes an active working interest. There is work and plenty of it, for each of us, so let us get at it and devote a little more of our time to the chapter.

With so large a membership so well distributed over the country, we should be able to fill many pages with interesting original notes.

Fellow members, I appeal to you to "do as you would be done by," do not wait for others to send in their notes but send in yours, and let us see if we cannot make our next Bulletin an interesting one. Yours truly,

WILLIAM B. CAULK.

Members.

Below will be found a list of all members in good standing at this date:

ACTIVE MEMBERS.

Adams, Stephen J., Cornish, Me. Andrews, Fred H., Elkton, Ore. Avery, Rodney M., Cedar Falls, Iowa. Barton, H. F., Belcherstown, Mass. Bartsch, Paul, Iowa City, Iowa. Bennett, Bert, Miller's Corners, N. Y. Bent, A. C., Taunton, Mass.