the Bulletin, not to create matter to fill space. Notes which may seem common and without interest locally, often prove of great interest when placed before the reading public. Do not hesitate to send in your notes because they may seem unworthy. Give the editor an opportunity to pass upon them.

OUR OFFICIAL ORGANS.

The Wilson Ornithological Chapter of the Agassiz Association was organized at Fall River, Mass., December 5, 1888. Its official organ was The Curlew, a twelve page monthly published by O. P. Hauger, Orleans, Indiana. The first Chapter matter appeared in Vol. I, No. 3, December, 1888. Publication was suspended with No. 7. Space was then secured in The Ornithologists' and Oologists' Semi-Annual, a forty-eight page magazine published by W. H. Foote, Pittsfield, Mass. With Vol. III, the magazine passed into the hands of C. C. Maxfield, Danbury, Conn., who published one number, when the Chapter assumed control and issued The Wilson Quarterly. The Quarterly ran through two numbers, and then gave place to The Journal, which, after the issue of two numbers, gave place to our present Bulletin.

In view of the fact that the entire edition of The Curlew, and the first number of Vols. I and II, of The O. & O. Semi-Annual are now out of print, while other numbers are becoming scarce, it seems advisable to issue a table of contents of all Chapter literature down to the beginning of the present year. In the Table of Contents which follows, the contents of numbers in which no Chapter matter appears, as well as the entire contents of numbers largely made up of other than Chapter matter, is given, so that the table of contents of each number may be complete. Chapter matter is designated as Wilson Chapter Matter, and all other matter as Other Matter.

For the convenience of any who may desire copies of any of these publications, the following list of the numbers which are not obtainable is given: The Curlew, the entire edition. The O. & O. Semi-Annual, Vol. I, No. I; Vol. II, No. I. BULLETIN, Nos, I, 2 and 3.
